Arrival of Gentlemen: Legionnaires

A week full of excitement and crazy journeys for our fellow first years it was. Each of them with a story to share about the unforgettable memories, new bonds and a change of character in the outmost positive way. On the first day, the boys arrived ever so excited to experience what the residence had to offer, as some were already eager to start with the activities planned ahead. Every year Legatum receives extraordinary men but this year the boys came with a bold and confident manner, ready to step up to each and every platform that would be available. They participated in activities such as inters with other residences and participated in the sporting programs with maximum effort and style...the way a Legatum Gentleman always does it. They found themselves fairly acquainted and attached to the residence the moment they entered and new that this was their home away from home within seconds. The boys then embarked on a journey to fill the shoes of the previous predecessors of the residence but at the same time break records that haven't been broken and show just how well and excellent the lifestyle of a Legatum Gentleman is within the University of the Free State.

Titans welcome Wonder woman: New Era

Legatum has welcomed their new House Head (Evodia Mohoanyane) and further rumbles the spirit of building and keeping standards of the residence. New fresh ideas are within the atmosphere of the residence, as the gentlemen of Legatum don't settle for ordinary.

Reaching Higher Notes

One of our harnessed singing prodigy's, Obakeng Mpshe, has taken his talents to mass media and took part in Mzansi's Clash of the Choir's that aired on channel e-TV. OB has represented our residence well in events such as Kleinser and the residence congratulates him on his out-

Our first years truly put in maximum effort into this event and were rewarded gratefully. No one ever expected or saw the residence placing near the top athletic residences, and the first years pulled through attaining 2nd position overall. The athletes were well cheered on by the fellow members and supporters and really boosted our members participating.

We are for the people: Public library community service

As a residence of gentlemen, Legatum takes pride in helping out the community to benefit the people and the boys went to go lend a helping hand at a local library by installing bookshelves and packing books at the library.

We're Different, we're Diverse and we pride ourselves in building life-long friendships through mentoring our first-years and exploiting their potential in all aspects of student life; we don't succumb to hierarchy but rather encourage our seniors and Residence Committee members to mentor our first years – from the lecture halls to the sports field, to whichever leadership roles they set their sights on. At Legatum we pride ourselves on our diverse brotherhood, we encourage open minded thinkers, and promote emergent leadership. It is now up to you to take up the challenge to carry on the legacy. Rest assured that, when choosing Legatum, a home away from home, you aren't just going to be an ordinary student, but rather an extraordinary destined for great success, great mates and an unforgettable varsity experience.

Huis Koos and Legatum bring in a storming performance at Stagedoor

An amazing night it was for these two residence at the annual Stagedoor event proudly sponsored by McDonalds at the University of the Free State. The first years of both residences really practiced hard to give an A grade performance, given a hand by the RC cultures of both residences and coaches. Through changing script time and time again, they found the perfect recipe into catching the crowd off guard and entertaining them to their satisfaction. The first years won two awards that night, namely: Best McDonalds Jingle & Best incorporated theme.

Basketball Champions at it Again

The titans are back in the courts for another ankle-breaking, 3 point splashing experience. Basketball runs in the veins of this residence and basketball never sleeps here. Whether it's a chilled jam session or just another afternoon of enjoying half-court match ups, one will never be to tired or play enough ball. After winning the league championship last year 2015, basketball took a whole new turn for the boys and now started playing semi-professional as your Varsity league would play. As the new year kicked in and freshmen coming in as well, the titans took no time to introduce the game to them and already from the first day they grew to love the sport. More members started joining in later as basketball is like a flu within this residence. Philip( Top right) stepped up as captain this year and decided to take things more serious this year, while having fun of coarse. While the freshmen were being trained and integrated into the gameplay, all

The other members started warming up for the upcoming season. A few weeks later, the team appointed an emeritus from the residence, Tank...to coach the teams and run fitness.

After a heavy 3 weeks of fitness, the boys were ready to kick it off in the courts and defend their title as the kings of the courts. The first match of the league started on the 11th of April. Legatum 1 played Armentum 1 and Legatum 2 played Tswelopele.

Both games were won that evening and the titans hope to keep the winning streak.

First years committee Gets elected

Our first years are our pride of the residence and make what the residence is today. Their efforts to represent the residence in all aspects have come nothing short of extraordinary up till this day. A platform was given to first year representatives to take upon the role of leadership, to guide them on what it takes to be a leader within the residence but also outside the walls of the university. They will also be using this platform to present what the first years are offering to the structure of the residence and adding on to the characteristics of what a true Legatum man is. Like the Residence Committee, they have different portfolios in which they will also be performing their tasks in the portfolios they have been allocated to.
