Academic Advising

1. Although students may register online, it is strongly advised that you visit your Programme Director to ensure that you enroll for the correct modules. Incorrect registration could result in a delay with graduation.
2. Students must consult their Programme Director for academic advice according to the advising schedule. The Faculty Rule Books are available at the following link: <https://www.ufs.ac.za/humanities/departments-and-divisions/faculty-of-the-humanities-home/academic-information/rule-books>
3. Due to the nature of the curricula in the Humanities (various choices and subject combinations), academic advice will be face-to-face on campus and will not be done via email or over the phone.
4. What is covered during academic advising?
  - Selecting your modules to register, according to the curriculum.
  - Repeating modules
  - Changing your degree.
  - Changing majors/minors/electives.
  - Modules with pre-requisites.
  - Deviations.

Dates

1. The Humanities follows a specific schedule for academic advising. Please check the schedule below to see when your Programme Director will be available for academic advice. Note: the dates differ from the general registration dates advertised on the web.
2. Multiple days are allocated to each programme to provide various options for students when they need to plan for their traveling and are not limited to one day only.
3. The last day to change/add modules on your registration is 14 February.

(Refer to the advising schedules on the next slides)
