Blackboard Training and Support

What is Blackboard?

Blackboard is an online learning platform where you will find resources, activities and assessments for the modules which you are enrolled in at the University. Please note that the use of Blackboard depends on the lecturer; therefore, not all modules will have an online Blackboard component.

How do I access and login to Blackboard?

To access Blackboard, visit the following website:

URL address: <https://learn.ufs.ac.za>

To log into your Blackboard account type:

Username: Student number

Password: UFS Campus password

What do you do if you are not enrolled into all your Blackboard modules?

Visit the Blackboard Helpdesk at the Central computer labs or the Blackboard registration stations located at the EXR (only available during January and February) and remember to bring along your proof of registration.

If these modules were made available by your lecturer, the staff at the Helpdesk will then enrol you in your registered Blackboard modules.

Please take note that you will only have access to your Blackboard modules 24 hours after you have registered.

Is there training available on how to use Blackboard?

The Student Orientation Course on Blackboard has been created to train students on the effective use of Blackboard. The course is an online, self-paced course which students can complete from home or at the campus computer labs. To get access to this course please contact the Blackboard Helpdesk or visit the Blackboard stations in the EXR that are available during the January registrations.

EduTech Buddy Portal

The EduTech Buddy Portal is an online Blackboard support portal for students. There you can find videos and manuals to assist you with effectively using Blackboard.

To access the portal, logon to Blackboard and click on the 'EduTech Buddy' tab located at the top right hand side of the page.

What is the Blackboard App?

The Blackboard App is an enjoyable, simple and easy-to-use mobile learning app for on the go, goal-oriented learners. This app will give you access to the UFS Blackboard facilities. The app provides you with the following features:

- Activity Stream - Shows smart view of prioritized events and actions
- Grades & Progress - Check grades and academic progress in real time
- Synchronous Learning - Join virtual classes on the go in Collaborate
- Assignments & Tests - View assignments and tests

How to install the App:

1. Download the app from iTunes, Google play or the Microsoft Store;
2. Type: University of Free State;
3. Enter your UFS student number;
4. Enter your UFS password.

Where can you download the app?

What is UFS101?

UFS101 is a 16-credit year-long module that is compulsory and a prerequisite for degree completion. Mainstream students register for UFS101 in their first year of registration, and extended programme students register for UFS101 in their second year of registration. There are programmes that are exempt from UFS101, such as the LLB eLearning programme, undergraduate certificate courses, and programmes within the Business School (a detailed list is provided in the UFS General Rules).

The aim in the first semester is to teach students the academic skills they require to be successful in university. In the second semester, the aim is to teach students about the skills required to be successful in the world of work. The overarching themes for the year are entrepreneurship and employability, and leadership and social justice.

What is A_STEP?

A_STEP provides both face-to-face and blended tutorials for students. These tutorials are led by trained senior students across all 7 faculties on the Bloemfontein campus as well as the 4 faculties on QwaQwa campus. The tutors themselves are either under- or postgraduate students, thereby making communication easier between the relevant parties. A_STEP sessions offer regular, peer-facilitated sessions that occur out of class and after lectures, thereby integrating content with learning skills and study strategies. The work covered and facilitated in the tutorial sessions is therefore embedded within the context of a particular discipline, which is dependent on the faculty.

The aims of the tutorial sessions are:

- to assist students in applying and discussing content related to the module, as delivered in the class;
- for students to work on difficult concepts with their classmates, while improving their study skills;
- for students to reflect on, revise and dissect the material presented in class from a peer's perspective;
- offer a community of student learning led by peers.

Whom can I contact to find out more?

Students are welcome to contact the Teaching and Learning Coordinators to find out more about the tutorial timetables in their relevant faculties or for any other faculty related questions.

Academic literacy courses

The academic literacy courses aim at developing students' language abilities with regards to the academic language of instruction and are presented on all campuses.

There are different academic literacy courses presented for the student cohort within the different faculties and the times can be found on the UFS timetable. Students need to enrol for a suitable class/group on Blackboard. They will need to attend two sessions of two hours each (total four hours) per week. Students must choose two time slots for the same group, for example: Group A1 and Group A2

The aimed at language abilities include the following:

- Listening and note-taking;
- Academic reading;
- Vocabulary usage;
- Academic writing;
- Analytical and or logical reasoning; and
- The Literacy Skills relevant for research purposes.
