

Funding Call – International Interdisciplinary Research 2026

We rarely get humanities and social sciences calls – the British Academy call might be worth pursuing if you have a partner overseas. The academy particularly encourages applications from the humanities.

Die British Academy is inviting proposals led by UK-based researchers in the humanities and social sciences working with international partners and wishing to develop genuinely interdisciplinary projects that range across all SHAPE and STEM disciplines on the theme of transnational and planetary challenges.

The academy will only accept applications that focus on one or more of the following four transnational and planetary challenge domains:
