ACU Gender Grants are awarded to member universities to support initiatives that will boost gender equity and equality on campus.

The grants can be used for a diverse range of projects, workshops, and events in areas such as:

- Supporting women in leadership
- Raising awareness of sexual harassment and developing anti-sexual-harassment initiatives
- Supporting women in science and research
- Creating effective institutional policies
- Mainstreaming gender equity into curriculum

What does the grant include?

Grants of up to GBP 1 000 are available to staff at ACU member universities to help meet the costs of organising projects that promote gender equity and equality.

Grantees are required to submit a short interim report halfway through their project, and a comprehensive final report within one month of completing their project.

Previous applicants

If you have previously applied for an ACU Gender Grant, you are welcome to apply again. However, please note that if your previous application was successful and you have already received an ACU Gender Grant, you will not be eligible to reapply.

More information

Since the ACU Gender Grants were launched in 2016, 49 universities in 22 countries have benefited and at least 800 beneficiaries have participated in workshops supported by the grants.
