

Global Leadership Summit

Gender, Intersectionality, and Diversity

Race, class, gender, and diversity provide an overarching intersectional framework for critique and dissension/resistance. This framework has, in fact, also provided a basis for many of the protests and counter-protests that have been experienced globally over the past decade. Embedded within this framework are the intersecting areas of economics, rights (civil and human), patriarchy, and culture, which highlight concerns affecting all the participants to the proposed GLS.
