We create a space where everyone feels a SENSE OF BELONGING.

Our teaching and social environments are SECURE AND CONFINED to one campus space.

We are FORWARD-THINKING, taking on the challenges of the future now.

We celebrate DIVERSITY.

We actively embrace a culture of CARE and KINDNESS.

We are THOUGHT LEADERS.
The primary purpose of a Humanities education is to give you access to critical thinking skills, appreciation of literature, understanding of cultures, the uses of power, the mysteries of the mind, the organisation of societies, the complexities of leadership, the art of communication, and the challenge of change. All of these skills will support you in your future career. A qualification in the Humanities is therefore well respected all over the world, and people with this type of qualification form the backbone of society.

Certain programmes were developed to train you for a specific career, while others equip you with skills needed for various positions. Today’s ever-changing career world requires various skills that this faculty can equip you with, including: language proficiency, communication skills, creativity, interpersonal skills, problem-solving skills, computer literacy, and critical thinking.

IMPORTANT DATES

PROGRAMMES FOR WHICH APPLICATIONS OPEN

1 April 2019 - Applications to study any undergraduate programme in 2020 offered on the Bloemfontein and Qwaqwa Campuses
1 September 2019 - Application to study any University Access Programme (UAP) in 2020 offered on the South Campus

CONFIDENTIALITY CLAUSE

The UFS confirms that all personal information provided in your application form will be treated confidentially and will not be sold to a third party or used for commercial or related purposes. The UFS further confirms that your personal information will only be used for purposes relating to your potential relationship with the UFS as a student, including, but not limited to the processing of your application to study at the UFS, effecting registration at the UFS, and for any communication purposes related to your application and/or registration to study at the UFS.

ADMISSION

Academic excellence is what the UFS is about – the higher your AP score, the better your chances of being chosen and finally admitted to study. Meeting the minimum admission requirements for your chosen/intended programme of study, does not guarantee selection and admission as all programmes have a limited number of spaces available. Applicants with the highest AP scores are chosen first and the admission continues until all spaces have been filled. If you do not meet the minimum admission requirements for your intended/chosen programme of study, you will not be selected. Consult the Faculty-specific admission requirements for all the programmes you qualify for and apply for the two programmes that best fit your personality, purpose and passion.

Pay attention to the following important information:

- The UFS reserves the right to change the minimum requirements of each programme or any other information without notifying you.
- There are specific admission requirements that you should meet if you want to study at any South African university. If you finished school in or after 2008, and have a National Senior Certificate (NSC), you need the following to apply for admission to a Bachelor’s degree at any South African university:
  - Four (4) of the seven (7) subjects included in your NSC subject package should be from the school subject list
  - A performance level of at least 4 (50%) in each of these four (4) subjects
- All admission requirements apply to first-year students in 2020.
- Admission to study at the UFS is dependent on the following:
  - Your application should meet all the minimum requirements for the programme.
- The programme must have available space and capacity to register students on the day of registration.
- You have to submit valid school results with your application.

Applications for all non-selection programmes close on 30 September 2019.

An admission point (AP) consisting of seven levels is used. Points will be awarded for six academic modules.

Note: No points will be awarded for achievement levels lower than 30%:

GENERAL ADMISSION REQUIREMENTS

For the mainstream programmes offered in the faculty, you require:

- National Senior Certificate with admission to Bachelor’s degree studies
- Minimum AP of at least 30
- Language of instruction on minimum level 4 (50%)

DISCLAIMER – IMPORTANT NOTICE

Kindly take note that this faculty programme booklet is aimed at prospective undergraduate students wishing to apply for a place at the University of the Free State (“UFS”) and whom wish to start their studies at the UFS during the 2020 academic year. The faculty programme booklet accordingly describes and outlines the programmes and services offered by the UFS, as well as the minimum admission requirements for each programme, but must be read with the policies, rules and regulations of the UFS (as may be amended from time to time). In order to be considered for selection for a programme, an applicant is required to comply with the programme’s minimum admission criteria in respect of the total AP score, subject specific requirements (as determined per programme), and faculty/department’s specific requirements. However, due to limited space, fulfilling all the minimum entry (admission) requirements does not guarantee acceptance to study at the UFS, or entrance into any particular programme offered by the UFS. The UFS makes every effort to ensure that the information provided in this faculty programme booklet is accurate and up-to-date at the time of going to press. However, it may be necessary for the UFS to make some changes to the information presented in the faculty programme booklet following publication – for example, where it is necessary to reflect changes in policy, practice or theory, or if an accrediting body necessitates requirements to be amended. Furthermore, certain programmes may only be offered if there is a sufficient number of applicants. The UFS undertakes to take all reasonable steps to provide the services (including, but not limited to, presentation of the programmes) described in the faculty programme booklet. It does not, however guarantee the provision of such services or the presentation of any or all programmes described herein. Should circumstances beyond the control of the UFS interfere with its ability to provide the services or presentation of any programme described herein, the UFS undertakes to use all reasonable steps to minimise any disruption to the services. Furthermore, the UFS reserves its right to make amendments to admission requirements if and when necessary. It reserves the right to withdraw, wholly or in part, the delivery of programmes. Applicants for, and students in programmes affected, will be informed in advance of the commencement of their studies for the academic year concerned.
ABBREVIATIONS

From this point forward, we will use these abbreviations instead of the full terms:

- NSC: National Senior Certificate
- AP: Admission Point
- BC: Bloemfontein Campus
- QC: Qwaqwa Campus
- SC: South Campus
- N/A: Not applicable
- NBT: Compulsory National Benchmark Test

General: Although the Academic and Quantitative Literacy tests (NBT) are written, only the results of the Academic Literacy test are used during the registration process.

We proudly offer programmes on all three campuses, i.e. South Campus (SC), Bloemfontein Campus (BC), and Qwaqwa Campus (QC).

*Bachelor’s Degrees: Bachelor of Arts (BA) – The faculty is currently in the process of re-designing the curricula for the BA programmes

The Faculty of the Humanities makes provision for core academic plans in the BA degree. These plans are built around a specific core (majors), which, together with a relevant minor subject and an elective(s), offer a student a coherent curriculum with a purposeful outcome. During the registration and orientation week at the beginning of your first year, the programme directors will discuss the curriculum compositions with you and clear up any uncertainties.
DESCRIPTION OF DIFFERENT MAJOR SUBJECTS

Please note that only major subjects indicated with a ‘’ are offered on the Qwaqwa campus

AFRIKAANS AND DUTCH*

Afrikaans and Dutch offers a richly varied programme in which you essentially study the linguistics as well as the literatures of these two languages, from the most basic to the most advanced level. At the basic level are the informal courses in Afrikaans and Dutch as foreign languages. A little more advanced are the language courses for second- and third-language speakers, followed by courses in practical Afrikaans for the professions. On the advanced level are firstly the courses in linguistics and literature for mother-tongue speakers of Afrikaans, then postgraduate studies up to Ph.D.

- AFN (home language module) is a major (Bloemfontein campus only)
- AFR (additional language is a minor only (Bloemfontein and Qwaqwa campus)
- AFP is service module and not a major (Bloemfontein campus only)
- GAFR (conversational Afrikaans is a service module; it is not a major and it is an elective)

ENGLISH*

The Department of English offers an exciting curriculum for undergraduate and postgraduate students interested in the study of language, literature and culture. Our academic staff work closely with students to help them become discerning and thoughtful readers of a range of texts tied to specific historical periods and movements, as well as to local South African and global contexts. Students who major in English are further given rigorous instruction in the interpretative, analytical, writing, reading and oral communication skills at the heart of critical and creative deliberation in contemporary South Africa. This knowledge and skills base provides the foundation from which students can enter into national and international conversations in and beyond their chosen areas of specialisation.

FRENCH

Studying French opens doors to an array of professions, not to mention international organisations where it is a prerequisite. The undergraduate courses provide students with a solid basis in language, which is the cornerstone of literary and cultural studies in the French and Francophone field. Students are also given their first taste of Practical Translation Studies from French into both Afrikaans and English, as well as Creative Writing in French from the second year onwards.

GERMAN

Learning German will increase your ability to communicate internationally and inter-culturally. It will inevitably broaden your perspective on the world and at the same time provide you with a better understanding of your own society, language and culture. Learning a new language is an exciting and enriching experience. It is also an investment for your future. The German Section at the University of the Free State offers course modules in German language, culture and literature from beginner level to postgraduate level.
GREEK
The study of Greek provides a tool to unlock the richness of the New Testament and other Greek texts. Students develop skills to apply Greek grammar and rhetorical and semantic principles to these texts in order to read, translate and interpret them against the background of the world in which they originated. In the 1st and 2nd year of study, the focus is on the acquisition of grammar principles and the reading of New Testament and Early Christian texts (Koine Greek). In the 3rd year students also read classical Greek authors such as Plato, Homer and the tragedians.

HEBREW
Biblical Hebrew is the language of the Old Testament and provides the background and religious concepts for the New Testament. Through an understanding of Hebrew within its cultural context in ancient Israel and the ancient Mediterranean world, it is possible to read and understand the message of the Bible -- Old Testament, New Testament and Apocrypha -- in a new and insightful way. Modules are also offered in the related ancient languages of Biblical Aramaic, Syriac, Ugaritic as well as the Septuagint and Bible translation.

LATIN
Students are introduced to the Latin language as well as the culture, literature and history of the Roman civilisation – aspects from which our legal system, form of governance, the Christian religion, Western literature, art and architecture and even vocabulary eventually evolved. Latin authors studied, include Vergil who wrote an epic on the story of Troy, as well as Catullus and Ovid whose love poems are as realistic and graphic as those of modern authors, while historians like Livy, the Younger Pliny and Tacitus prove that our world does not really differ from the Classical world.

SESOTHO*
Sesotho language course has two streams, namely: Sesotho mother tongue that provides knowledge on language structure and usage, through disciplines such as morphology, syntax, semantics and sociolinguistics within the context of Sesotho culture, and provides literature studies through disciplines such as poetry, novel, drama and oral literature. The second stream is Sesotho none-mother tongue, which provides basic communication in Sesotho and Sesotho culture as conveyed through everyday practical conversational situations. These two language courses introduce students to basic language skills, linguistic content and historical development of Sesotho language and literature.

SOUTH AFRICAN SIGN LANGUAGE
South African Sign Language (SASL) is a minority language used by more than 600 000 people in South Africa. SASL would enable you to communicate with a deaf person and provide you with the ability to communicate and therefor render a professional service to the deaf without the use of an interpreter. You need motivation and passion to enrol for this course.
Focus areas in SASL:
• Linguistics: The basis for understanding the grammatical aspects of signed languages.
• History and deaf Culture: The study of deaf culture, development of signed languages, organisations for the deaf and to establish an understanding of the struggle deaf people have in having their language recognised.
• SASL Acquisition: Vocabulary (signs) related to specific topics, e.g. family, school, food, animals, etc. are taught in this part of the module.
• SASL Practical: Students have the opportunity to practise what they have learned in the Acquisition class through interaction with deaf people and signing with peers.

ANTHROPOLOGY
Anthropology, the study of humankind across time and space, seeks to understand that which makes us human both as individuals and as a collective. Through research, we demonstrate the complexity and diversity of humanity’s lifeworld. Anthropology is, therefore, a uniquely humanizing discipline, teaching its students to attend to the complexity of seemingly simple social encounters and to the diversity and psychic unity of human life.

Focus areas in Anthropology:
• Contemporary identity construction
• Religious practices and philosophies of life
• Globalisation, politics and economics
• Symbolic structures and forms of expression
• Processes of socio-cultural change
• Transnational Migration

ART HISTORY AND IMAGE STUDIES
In this day and age, we are constantly surrounded by images in social media, art, movies, advertisements, maps, cartoons, diagrams, etc. But have you ever thought about the power images have? How they can fascinate us or move us to tears? How they can even inspire people to destroy and attack them? Art History and Image studies is a discipline which asks questions like these to help us understand why human beings make images and what they tell us about ourselves.

We aim to vitalise art history by practising the discipline within a contemporary African and South African framework. Students are exposed to the history of the visual arts and broader visual culture (including popular culture like films), as well as to the history of ideas in order to analyse their dynamic impact on contemporary life. The fact that we are situated in the diversity of South Africa and the African continent intensifies the mutual tensions between theories, image objects and imaginary worlds. Our study of images emphasises the iconic energy of translations, transformations and transactions between cultures, theories and aesthetic image objects.
Focus areas in Art History and Image Studies:

- Image interpretation in Art History from prehistoric art to early modern art
- Studying visual culture and new media in the twentieth and twenty-first centuries
- Visual narratives and fictive worlds: How images can “tell stories” in different ways
- Image translations in South Africa: Contemporary South African artists’ critical engagement with Western art traditions
- Envisioning knowledge: The roles images and imagination play in generating knowledge in various contexts, including the worlds of art, science, entertainment, technology and politics
- Forms of image interaction: Key texts in art historical interpretation (the ways in which spectators understand, use and interpret images)
- Approaches to the moving image: Exploring the theoretical concepts and cultural implications surrounding moving images (e.g. films and television series)

CLASSICAL STUDIES

Classical Studies looks at the fascinating stories about gods, heroes, and monsters – many of these themes still live on in Western literature, drama, art, music, and even in psychology: have you ever wondered why the hero in James Joyce’s well-known novel has the name Ulysses? Or what the Oedipus complex is? Or why the Titanic had that name? Or whether there really was a city called Troy? Or how Maleficent can be traced to a classical earth goddess? Or that Percy from the Percy Jackson series is based on a Greek hero? Or that Twilight’s sexy vampires trace back to legends of classical monsters? All these questions and more can be answered in Classical Studies.

Focus areas in Classical studies:

- Classical myths
- Everyday life in classical civilisations
- Art and architecture in classical civilisations
- The heritage of myths in post–classical art, music and literature
- Peripheral figures in classical civilisations: women, children and slaves
- Myths in classical literature: Homer and Vergil
- Religion and magic in classical civilisations
- Classical literature and rhetoric

COMMUNICATION SCIENCE*

How good are you at saying exactly what you mean? The ability to communicate effectively and responsibly is what will set you apart in the 21st century. Whether you are on social media, in a one-on-one conversation, in front of a large audience or even communicating to a mass audience through various platforms, the basic ability to deliver a powerful message in an efficient way is crucial.
Focus areas in Communication Science:
• Interpersonal communication
• Applied interpersonal communication
• Visual communication
• Persuasive communication
• Communication theory
• Communication ethics
• Communication research
• Development and health communication

GEOGRAPHY*
Geography is the science of place, space and time. Geographers ask where things are located on the surface of the Earth, why they are located there, how places differ from one another, and how people interact with their environment. There are two main branches of geography: Human Geography and Physical Geography. Human Geography is concerned with the special aspects of human existence – how people and their activities are distributed in space, how they use and understand space, and how they create and sustain the places that make up the Earth’s surface. Physical Geography studies patterns of climate, landforms, vegetation, soils and water and how people interact with, and are influenced by them.

Focus areas in Geography:
• Environmental management
• Environmental impact assessment
• Town and regional planning
• Land-use change, strategic spatial planning and housing planning in provincial and national government departments
• Integrated development planning and local economic development

HISTORY*
In our courses we examine South Africa’s contemporary past; the history of our continent; and the important historical processes of the world that we live in. The Department has an impressive research track record specialising in the post-1948 political history of South Africa; oral history; South African military history; women and their stories in the context of conflict and violence; film history and other aspects of South Africa’s cultural history and heritage

Focus areas in History:
• Introduction to the twentieth-century history of South Africa and Africa
• Twentieth-century world history
• The rise of nationalism in South Africa and Africa and the resistance to it
• Twentieth-century global clashes
• En route to the new South Africa and the African Renaissance, c. 1976-2000: a historical perspective
• How to make history
LINGUISTICS
Linguistics is the scientific study of language. Linguists study things like language structure (syntax & morphology), speech sounds (phonology & phonetics), meaning (semantics & pragmatics), sociolinguistics (language contact, language in education, language right), historical linguistics, typology, or applied linguistics (first or second language acquisition, speech impairments), psycholinguistics. Linguists also document and describe languages or help speech communities to do so.

PHILOSOPHY
Philosophy is not just a subject, but a way of life. Philosophy begins with Socrates’ famous statement in the fifth century BC: “All that I know is that I don’t know.” In our department we strive to cultivate a questioning, critical life practice in our students – a practice that is as necessary in everyday life as in the work environment. Our students get a thorough grounding in more than 25 centuries’ thought tradition, situated in the context of contemporary South Africa. It enables our students to be critical, participating citizens who contribute to a culture of dialogue and democracy.

Focus areas in Philosophy:
- Classical Greek and Roman Philosophy
- The Church Fathers and the Middle Ages: Historical and Conceptual Overview
- Early modern and modern thought: From Ockham to the French Revolution
- Kant and Hegel: Between German Idealism and Romanticism
- Themes in Contemporary Continental Philosophy: Critical Theory, Phenomenology, and Deconstruction
- Philosophy in Africa, Multiculturalism and the Politics of Identity

POLITICAL SCIENCE*
Political Science encompasses the study of the rules, institutions, processes and ideas that govern and impact our daily lives. It further concerns the study of actors such as political parties, human rights groups, terrorist organisations, labour unions, religious bodies and other role-players that play significant roles in politics and international relations. Pressing issues in politics and international relations such as ideology, power, poverty, development, globalisation and inequality are also studied.

Focus areas in Political Science:
- Political Dynamics - Political theory and ideology; government systems, processes and regimes; governance; electoral politics; local government and service delivery; co-operative government; political development and transformation; democratisation; political economy; gender politics; strategic political planning; and political risk analysis.
- International Relations - International Relations theory; globalisation and world politics; foreign policy and diplomacy; international organisations; international law; international political economy; African politics; and international conflict, security and strategic studies.
PSYCHOLOGY*
Psychology is the scientific study of human behaviour. It focuses on the ways in which individuals’ thoughts; emotions and behaviour develop and change over a lifetime. Although the study of individual functioning is central to this field, the systems relevant to both normal and abnormal behaviour is also included.

Focus areas in Psychology:
• Developmental Psychology
• Social Psychology
• Health Psychology
• Psychopathology
• Research Methodology
• Personology
• Psychotherapy and Ethics

SOCIODETY*
Sociology is the scientific study of society and social interaction. It focuses on the reciprocal relationship between society and the individual - how social institutions (for example, family, education, religion, politics and culture) shape people’s behaviour, beliefs, and identity as well, as how individuals, in turn, construct and change the societies that they live in. Knowledge of sociology can help us: recover (understand/analyse) our immediate past, anticipate the future of society; appreciate the diversity of human existence in society; deal with current societal problems and in so doing, help us strive for the creation of a better society for all.

Focus areas in Sociology:
• General sociology
• Sociology of consumerism and consumption
• The sociology of population and the environment
• Industrial sociology
• Sociological theory
• Sociology of the family
• Research methodology

Society and culture cannot function without language. Practices based on language, such as translation, interpreting, editing and terminology design, occur every day in the economy, politics, media, medicine, law and other fields. In the multilingual countries of Africa, journalists, doctors, politicians, civil servants, software designers and others have to perform their work with people who speak different languages. In Language Practice, we guide students to study these practices, the policy context in which they occur and their influences on society and culture.

We focus on the following:

- Translation/interpreting and development
- Terminology development and public service delivery
- Editing
- Language management in development contexts

A language practitioner can specialise in one or more of the following fields:

- Translator
- Language technologist
- Interpreter
- Language engineer
- Dictionary maker
- Language programmer
- Language manager
- Copywriter and editor
- Terminologist
- Language facilitator

A language practitioner who wants to work in South Africa must be proficient in at least two of the official languages, one of which should be his/her home language and the other one English. Computer literacy is a prerequisite. Become a language practitioner and make languages work for you!

Are you interested in understanding the political environment; comprehending the changes in the political world around you; evaluating the process of political transformation; learning how to manage the political environment in the process of rapid change; and participating in the development of a new value system linked to good governance and democracy? This programme offers a unique multidisciplinary combination of learning outcomes, providing you with the necessary theoretical and practical skills to make a meaningful contribution in both the public and the private sectors of South African life.
It aims to:

• equip you with an understanding of the political, social, and economic realities of South Africa, as well as the necessary skills to contribute to the process of governance in a changing society;
• prepare you for careers in the civil service (government, administration, the diplomatic corps, the army, and the police), the media, politics, NGOs, trade unions, and business;
• promote political expertise and elementary management skills in a rapidly changing environment;
• develop you as a leader; and
• promote a healthy value system required for good governance.
