FACULTY OF THEOLOGY & RELIGION

If you wish to study Theology, Kovsies is the right place for you – here you will be stimulated intellectually and feel at home spiritually.

Vision of the Faculty of Theology and Religion: The Faculty of Theology and Religion practices theology as an academic discipline with scientific credibility, and is herein committed to compassion for people.

The faculty is the only institution in central South Africa that offers fully-fledged, all-inclusive theological education to train students for a professional career in ministry. It offers training in all theological disciplines, starting at undergraduate level. The faculty embraces values that encourage cultural, gender, and ethnic inclusivity, promote academic and intellectual excellence, innovation, support, as well as spiritual and ethical integrity. It also strives to establish a sense of community and hospitality within all spheres of faculty activities. The Faculty of Theology and Religion delivers a unique national and international contribution to the development of the church, society, and the academic environment. This is achieved through quality theological education and specialist research based on dedicated theological teaching and a solid research framework.

You may enroll with us for a variety of programmes and courses, irrespective of your denomination. Here, the Word of God, as well as its interpretation and use (in history and today), is studied. We equip you with the correct knowledge, skills, and attitude to serve people with humility and to lead with confidence.

Our faculty underwrites high academic standards. Our lecturers focus on research that is acknowledged both nationally and internationally. Even as early as undergraduate level, we offer our students the opportunity to develop a love for research and practice. Theory and praxis go hand in hand. Therefore, teaching and learning receive special attention in the faculty in order for our students to become responsible, innovative, and serving theologians, making a difference wherever they go.

Our subjects are acknowledged universally. In the bachelor's degree, students are exposed to subjects such as Old and New Testament, Systematic Theology, Church History, Practical Theology, Missiology, and Religion Studies (more about these subjects later). In the first two years of study, students also have the opportunity to equip themselves in auxiliary study areas. Subjects include Hebrew, Greek, Latin, Psychology, and Religion Studies. You will learn everything you need to know in order to stand your ground in the church as a pastor, or as a spiritual leader in the community. We provide students the opportunity to develop good working relations with students from their own and other church denominations.

What about bursaries? Our faculty offers annual bursaries for postgraduate students. Call us for more information. Some churches also provide bursaries for their students. Enquire from your church or get in touch with us for the names of contact persons.

“For us, it is about Theology without boundaries.”

Academic excellence is what the UFS is about – the higher your AP score, the better your chances of being chosen and finally admitted to study. Meeting the minimum admission requirements for your chosen/intended programme of study does not guarantee selection and admission, as all programmes have a limited number of spaces available. Applicants with the highest AP scores are chosen first and the admission continues until all spaces have been filled. If you do not meet the minimum admission requirements for your intended/chosen programme of study, you will not be selected. Consult the faculty-specific admission requirements for all the programmes you qualify for and apply for the two programmes that best fit your personality, purpose, and passion.

Pay attention to the following important information:

- The UFS reserves the right to change the minimum requirements of each programme or any other information without notifying you.
- There are specific admission requirements that you should meet if you want to study at any South African university. If you finished school in or after 2008 and have a National Senior Certificate (NSC), you need to have a performance level of at least 4 (50%) in four (4) of the seven (7) subjects included in your NSC subject package. LO is excluded.

THE FACULTY OF THEOLOGY AND RELIGION CONSISTS OF FOUR ACADEMIC DEPARTMENTS OFFERING THE FOLLOWING SUBJECTS

OLD AND NEW TESTAMENT STUDIES

Enquiries: Prof DF Tolmie: tolmief@ufs.ac.za | +27 51 401 3023

OLD TESTAMENT

The Old Testament is a library of books containing stories of people and their encounters with God; encounters that repeatedly gave meaning to their lives. When one embarks on a study of the Old Testament, one will find that its stories, poems, words of wisdom, heroic tales, and, in some cases, its narratives of misfortune, is gripping stuff. To gain an understanding of this part of the Bible, one will start on a journey of interesting and creative interplay between the world of the Old Testament and yourself as the present-day reader.

To get a grip on the richness of the Old Testament, one needs to study the texts of the Old Testament, exploring their fascinating literary and historical features. At the same time, one must also have an insight into the main theological trends of the Old Testament; therefore, different theologies of and in the Old Testament are also studied.

The history of Israel, the cultural-historical background of the Old Testament, the geography of Israel, and the hermeneutics of the Old Testament help to open up the meaningful messages of the Old Testament.

NEW TESTAMENT

In the New Testament discipline, we attempt to thoroughly understand the 27 writings of the New Testament. We do this by placing each piece of writing within the original situation in which it was written. In this way, we do not only attempt to understand what the first author(s) tried to communicate to a particular group of Christians, but also what the Lord wants to communicate to modern believers. Therefore, we investigate issues such as, 'Who was/were the author(s) of a particular writing?'; 'When was it written?'; 'What background information is vital for understanding the writings of the New Testament?'; 'What methods can help us to understand the New Testament adequately?'; 'How did it happen that these 27 writings became part of the New Testament?'; and 'How can one formulate the message of the New Testament writings in the most adequate way?'

HISTORICAL AND CONSTRUCTIVE THEOLOGY

Enquiries: Prof R Venter: rventer@ufs.ac.za | +27 51 401 2788

SYSTEMATIC THEOLOGY

This academic field of study entails a number of disciplines, e.g. Encyclopaedia, Symbolics, Systematic Theology, Ethics, and Apologetics.

Encyclopaedia attends to the development of Theology as a scientific discipline and to the contemporary challenges for the public university.

Symbolics focuses on the phenomenon of the creeds and confession of the church from the Early Church to the 20th Century.

Systematic Theology studies the content of the Christian faith in a coherent manner. Questions pertaining to the faith of the church, e.g. about God, salvation, and the church, are addressed. This is done from various perspectives, e.g. Biblical, Reformational, Contemporary, and African.

Human behaviour in terms of certain norms is the subject field of Ethics. Contemporary dilemmas in relation to social justice, sexuality, and digital communication are studied.

In the subject of Apologetics, challenges from modernism and postmodernism to the truth of the Christian faith are addressed, as well as how theology should respond to that.

CHURCH HISTORY AND POLITY

Ecclesiology mainly consists of two subjects: Church History and Church Polity.

Church History is subdivided into general (from 33 AD until the present) and South African church history, and includes the history of missions, the history of the relation between churches, and the development of the doctrine of the church. This history is studied with theological insight and a proper knowledge of the discipline of church history writing.

Church Polity is studying issues such as the offices in the church, meetings in the church, i.e. synods, church discipline, and the relationship between church and state and church and education. We focus on two sides of this coin: Biblical principles for the governance of the church, and how this was addressed throughout history.

PRACTICAL AND MISSIONAL THEOLOGY

Enquiries: Prof JA van den Berg: vdbergja@ufs.ac.za | Tel: +27 51 401 3430

PRACTICAL THEOLOGY

The Word of God for the people of today – this is the world that Practical Theology leads you into. The study field of Practical Theology covers four terrains of study:

- Homiletics and liturgy, where attention is given to preaching and the worship service.
- Pastoral care has to do with caring for people, from individual to family problems, to community challenges.
- Congregational studies and leadership investigate the environment and community where the faith community is called to make a difference; the question is asked – what happens in congregations.
- Faith formation looks at the transfer of our faith, especially to young people within a new and challenging context.

On a postgraduate level, a structured programme is presented at honours and master's levels. This is a unique qualification which may open doors for students at different levels. Read more on the website at www.ufs.ac.za/praxis

MISSIONOLOGY

Being a missionary is to spread the glorious Good News of Jesus Christ into the world. With us, you will learn what the Bible has to say about missions; what people believe about God and the gods, and how a Christian should proclaim the Good News in a comprehensive manner. The needs of people are confronted, for example, poverty and HIV/Aids. A student will also learn how the gospel can be realised and expressed in the congregation to reach others. The inspiring story of how the gospel was spread throughout the ages is also told. The challenge to become personally involved in mission work is posed, and methods for reaching people in the best possible way are determined and explained.

RELIGION STUDIES

Enquiries: Prof P Verster: versterp@ufs.ac.za | Tel: +27 51 401 2972

SYSTEMATIC THEOLOGY

Although the majority of people in South Africa are Christians, the country is regarded as a pluralistic and multi-religious society. In this sense, South Africa is the land of many religions. Religion Studies focuses on the sociological study of major religions and how they are practised in South Africa. Thus, in this subject, these major religions are studied thematically. The motivation for Theological students to study other religions is to equip them to better understand and meaningfully engage with other religions, either in discussions or for the purpose of missions. Religion Studies therefore opens up a world of religions to the Theological student.

In the Religion Education course, Religion Studies focuses on a basic introduction to different religions, as well as how to engage meaningfully with learners at both primary and high schools.
