Inspiring excellence, transforming lives through quality, impact, and care.

The primary purpose of a Humanities education is to give you access to critical thinking skills, appreciation of literature, understanding of cultures, the use of power, the mysteries of the mind, the organisation of societies, the complexities of leadership, the art of communication, and the challenge of change. All of these skills will support you in your future career. A qualification in the Humanities is therefore well respected worldwide, and people with this type of qualification form the backbone of society.

Certain programmes have been developed to train you for a specific career, while others equip you with skills needed for various positions. Today's ever-changing career world requires several skills that this faculty can equip you with, including language proficiency, communication skills, creativity, interpersonal skills, problem-solving skills, computer literacy, and critical thinking.

Welcome to the faculty

DEAN: PROF HEIDI HUDSON

IS THE UFS YOUR BEST CHOICE

The University of the Free State creates opportunities and growth through leading learning and teaching, focused research, and impactful engagement with society. We offer world-class benefits to all individuals.

What makes us special is that our students are holistically supported to achieve some of the highest success rates in the country and that they are highly employable.

What's more, we produce research with industry and social impact and real-world application.

Our culture promotes equity, ubuntu, and accountability.

We address challenges and issues as they emerge, and we deal with them openly in a way that promotes social justice and human rights.

Situated in the heart of South Africa, our character of caring and diversity translates into an outstanding university experience.

APPLICATION TO STUDY IN 2023

MPORTANT APPLICATION OPENING DATES:

Date	Programmes for which applications open
1 April 2022	Applications to study any undergraduate programme offered on the Bloemfontein and Qwaqwa Campuses in 2023
1 July 2022	Applications to study any Access Programme (AP) offered on the South Campus and the sub-regions in 2023

APPLICATION TO STUDY AT THE UFS IS FREE

You can apply online 🕚

WHAT DO YOU NEED TO STUDY AT THE UNIVERSITY OF THE FREE STATE?

For degree studies at the University of the Free State, we expect that

- you have an NSC or NCV with an endorsement that allows entrance to degree studies (bachelor's degree) or an equivalent qualification;
- you meet all the minimum admission requirements for the programme you intend to study. Meeting the minimum admission requirements for your chosen/intended programme of study does not guarantee admission, as limited spaces are available in each programme;
- you have a minimum level of 4 (50%) in English Home Language or English First Additional Language; and
- you must pass certain school subjects with a minimum level of achievement to take a specific university module. For example, you must get a minimum mark of 60% for Mathematics in Grade 12 if you plan to study the Bachelor of Medicine and Bachelor of Surgery (MB ChB). Please refer to the section on the faculty-specific admission requirements, which also includes the respective compulsory subjects and achievement levels required per programme.

HOW DO YOU APPLY?

Visit https://apply.ufs.ac.za. Keep your mobile phone and an active email address ready, as you require both to access and complete the online application form.

Proceed through all the steps and submit your electronic application. Make sure that you complete the application form properly, e.g., if you need on-campus residence accommodation or financial aid, indicate this in the relevant section.

Upload copies of the following in PDF or JPEG format when you apply for undergraduate studies:

- · Your ID if you are a South African citizen
- Your passport if you are an international student
- · Your parent's ID or passport if you are younger than 18
- Your final Grade 11 results with the school's stamp
- National Senior Certificate (NSC) or Grade 12 IEB certificate if you have already matriculated
- Your academic record, only if you are/were a student at another institution of higher learning
- USAf accreditation from the examination board for South African universities. Apply to mb.usaf.ac.za for conditional exemption, foreign conditional exemption, or mature age conditional exemption. A Universities South Africa (USAf) Certificate of Exemption is required if you do not have an endorsed South African Senior Certificate. If you are eligible for the certificate, but have not yet applied for it, we will assist you with the process. Therefore, you can apply before receiving the required certificate. Contact the Office for International Affairs at +27 51 401 3219 | niemannaja@ufs.ac.za or +27 51 401 9032 | tshabalalal@ufs.ac.za

The online application is quick and easy – no hassle, no fuss! It has an easy and modern design and is mobile- and tablet-friendly. You can apply using any device. You can expect a quicker response time if you apply online.

For assistance, contact: +27 51 401 9666 or studentadmin@ufs.ac.za

IMPORTANT APPLICATION CLOSING DATES:

IMPORTANT NOTICE: If your application is received after the following closing dates, it will not be considered.

IMPORTANT INFORMATION FOR ALL STUDENTS:

- Limited space: Keep in mind that all programmes have limited space available; therefore, you are encouraged to apply as soon as possible to avoid disappointment. When we process your application for admission, we capture your details onto the UFS databases if your details are not available, or if you have omitted it on your application form, you will not be admitted or be able to register. For this reason, it is very important to complete the application form in full and to stick to the closing dates. Meeting the minimum admission requirements for your chosen/intended programme of study does not guarantee admission, as limited space is available in each programme.
- National Senior Certificate: If you already have a National Senior Certificate (NSC), you must include a copy with your application form.
- Application: Make sure that you complete the application correctly and attach all the required documents.
 An incomplete application, as well as outstanding documents, will delay your application process.
 Therefore, make sure that you complete the application form thoroughly, e.g., your personal details, school performance levels, the correct name of the school you are currently attending or have attended if you have already matriculated; if you need on-campus residence accommodation and/or financial aid, indicate this in the relevant section.
- Transferring students: If you transfer from another tertiary institution, you must include a certificate of conduct and an official study record from the previous tertiary institution with your application.
- International students: If you are from another country, you must attach your certified school-leaving certificate and relevant diplomas. Universities South Africa (USAf) Certificate of Exemption is required if you do not have an endorsed South African Senior Certificate.
 - You can apply at the UFS before receiving the exemption certificate from USAf.
 - If you are an international student currently in Grade 12, the UFS may make a conditional offer based on your final Grade 11 results.
 - If you do not have matriculation exemption, the Office for International Affairs will apply for the USAf certificate of exemption. You will have to pay the prescribed fee before the Office for International Affairs attends to the USAf exemption application. You must pay and submit the relevant documentation as soon as you receive the final Grade 12 results.
 - Please see the section referring to international students' application and admission requirements.

ADMISSION TO STUDY AT THE UFS

Academic excellence is what the UFS is about – the higher your AP score, the better your chances of being chosen and finally admitted to study. Meeting the minimum admission requirements for your chosen/intended programme of study does not guarantee selection and admission, as all programmes have a limited number of spaces available. Applicants with the highest AP scores are chosen first, and the admission continues until all spaces have been filled. If you do not meet the minimum admission requirements for your intended/chosen programme of study, you will not be selected. Consult the faculty-specific admission requirements for all the programmes you qualify for and apply for the two programmes that best fit your personality, purpose, and passion.

You will be CONDITIONALLY ADMITTED based on your Grade 11 or equivalent results, subject to you meeting all the minimum requirements for the intended programme of study. Please note that conditional admission is not applicable to all the selection programmes in the Faculty of Health Sciences.

Your FINAL ADMISSION to the programme of your choice will depend on your final Grade 12 results. You will be notified of the university's admission decision immediately after the Department of Education has released your final Grade 12 results. Therefore, it is your responsibility to ensure that the contact details on your application form are correct.

Pay attention to the following important information:

- The UFS reserves the right to change the minimum requirements of each programme or any other information without notifying you.
- There are specific admission requirements that you should meet if you want to study at any South African university. If you finished school in or after 2008 and have a National Senior Certificate (NSC), you need to have a performance level of at least 4 (50%) in four (4) of the seven (7) subjects included in your NSC subject package.
- All admission requirements apply to first-year students in 2023.
- · Admission to study at the UFS is dependent on the following:
 - Your application should meet all the minimum requirements for the programme
 - The programme must have available space and capacity to admit students
 - You have to submit valid school results with your application
- Applications for all non-selection programmes close on 30 September 2022.

An admission point (AP) consisting of seven levels is used. In addition, points will be awarded for six academic modules.

Note: No points will be awarded for achievement levels lower than 30%:

Percentage	7	7	6	5	4	3	2
	(90–100%)	(80–89%)	(70-79%)	(60-69%)	(50-59%)	(40-49%)	(30–39%)
AP	8	7	6	5	4	3	2

One point is awarded for Life Orientation (LO) from achievement Level 5 (60%) or higher.

CONFIDENTIALITY CLAUSE

The UFS confirms that all personal information provided in your application form will be treated confidentially and will not be sold to a third party or used for commercial or related purposes.

The UFS further confirms that your personal information will only be used for purposes relating to your potential relationship with the UFS as a student, including but not limited to the processing of your application to study at the UFS, effecting registration at the UFS, and for any communication purposes related to your application and/or registration to study at the UFS.

STUDENT SERVICE CENTRE

Our friendly agents are ready to assist you with the application, admission, and registration processes. Contact the agents if you require

- information on the admission requirements for any study programme;
- assistance to complete your application form (online or hard copy); and
- assistance with tracking the status of your application.

DISCLAIMER - IMPORTANT NOTICE

Kindly take note that this faculty programme booklet is aimed at prospective undergraduate students wishing to apply for a place at the University of the Free State (UFS) and who wish to start their studies at the UFS during the 2023 academic year. The faculty programme booklet accordingly describes and outlines the programmes and services offered by the UFS, as well as the minimum admission requirements for each programme, but must be read in conjunction with the policies, rules, and regulations of the UFS (as may be amended from time to time). In order to be considered for selection in a programme, an applicant is required to comply with the programme's minimum admission criteria in respect of the total AP score, subject-specific requirements (as determined per programme), and faculty/department-specific requirements. However, due to limited space, fulfilling all the minimum entry (admission) requirements does not guarantee acceptance to study at the UFS, or admission to any particular programme offered by the UFS.

The UFS makes every effort to ensure that the information provided in this faculty programme booklet is accurate and up to date at the time of going to press. However, it may be necessary for the UFS to make some changes to the information presented in the faculty programme booklet following publication – for example, where it is necessary to reflect changes in policy, practice, or theory, or if an accrediting body necessitates requirements to be amended. Furthermore, certain programmes may only be offered if there are a sufficient number of applicants.

The UFS undertakes to implement all reasonable steps to provide the services (including, but not limited to, presentation of the programmes) described in the faculty programme booklet. However, it does not guarantee the provision of such services or the presentation of any or all programmes described herein. Should circumstances beyond the control of the UFS interfere with its ability to provide the services or presentation of any programme described herein, the UFS undertakes to use all reasonable measures to minimise any disruption to the services.

Furthermore, the UFS reserves the right to make amendments to admission requirements if and when necessary. It reserves the right to withdraw, wholly or in part, the delivery of programmes. Applicants and students in affected programmes will be informed before the commencement of their studies for the academic year concerned.

Note: The admission requirements as indicated below are guidelines. Meeting the minimum requirements for your chosen/intended programme of study does not guarantee admission, as limited space is available in each programme. Final selection and admission are subject to the availability of space, academic results, and other admission requirements where applicable.

UNDERGRADUATE EXTENDED CURRICULUM PROGRAMMES

Prospective students with matriculation exemption who do not meet the minimum requirements to enrol for mainstream programmes, will be placed in the Extended Curriculum Programme (ECP). Placement is subject to the availability of space.

The ECP is designed to equip students who do not meet the minimum requirements with the necessary competencies to be successful in their studies. Academic support and skills development are integrated with regular academic work. To be considered for placement in the ECP, prospective students have to apply for the mainstream programmes.

Contact the faculty for more information.

The Faculty of the Humanities makes provision for two options in the BA degree: Bachelor of Arts (General) and Bachelor of Arts specialising in Languages. The main purpose of a BA degree is to open up students' choices of subjects and provide freedom to explore. A student will only make a final decision about their major at the end of the second year. During the registration and orientation week at the beginning of your first year, the programme directors will discuss the curriculum compositions with you and clear up any uncertainties.

DESCRIPTION OF DIFFERENT MAJOR SUBJECTS

Please note that only major subjects indicated with a '' are offered on the Qwaqwa Campus

Afrikaans and Dutch*

Afrikaans and Dutch offer a richly varied programme in which you study the linguistics as well as the literature of these two languages, from the most basic to the most advanced level. At the basic level we have the informal courses in Afrikaans and Dutch as foreign languages. Besides the home-language modules (AFN), Afrikaans is also offered at an additional language level in the AFR modules on both the Bloemfontein and Qwaqwa campuses. Afrikaans for the professions (AFP) is service modules for the professions, focusing on writing and speaking competency in the professional work environment. In the home-language modules (AFN), modules are offered in both linguistics and literature to provide access to postgraduate studies. Besides the honours programme (also a multidisciplinary option), the department offers both a research master's and a structured master's programme in creative writing, as well as a research-based PhD and a PhD in Creative Writing.

- AFN (home-language module) is a major (Bloemfontein Campus only)
- AFR (additional language) is a minor only (Bloemfontein and Qwaqwa campuses)
- AFP is a service module and not a major (Bloemfontein Campus only)
- GAFR (conversational Afrikaans) is a service module; it is not a major and is an elective.

Ancient Near Eastern Culture

The ancient Near East is one of the earliest centres of civilisation and included the modern Middle East and parts of Africa. These modules examine the peoples, cultures, technologies, ecologies, innovations, and contributions of the ancient Near East and their influence on our modern world. The enduring influence and interconnections of the ancient Near East and African culture are emphasised. These modules will be of interest to students in history, political science, philosophy, art history, Arabic, Hebrew, anthropology, communication science, geography, and sociology.

Arabic

Arabic is one of the most important languages in Africa and has more than 422 million speakers worldwide. It is also the religious language of the Koran, the sacred scripture of the world's 1,5 billion Muslims. Learning the Arabic language (conversational and written), literature, and culture will open employment opportunities in North Africa and the Middle East, as well as opportunities for study in history, political science, literature, and religion.

English*

The Department of English offers an exciting curriculum for undergraduate and postgraduate students interested in the study of language, literature, and culture. Our academic staff works closely with students to help them become discerning and thoughtful readers of a range of texts tied to specific historical periods and movements, as well as to local South African and global contexts. Students who major in English are further given rigorous instruction in the interpretative, analytical, writing, reading, and oral communication skills at the heart of critical and creative deliberation in contemporary South Africa. This knowledge and skills base provides the foundation from which students can enter into national and international conversations in and beyond their chosen areas of specialisation.

French

Studying French opens doors to an array of professions, not to mention international organisations where it is a prerequisite. The undergraduate courses provide students with a solid foundation in language, which is the cornerstone of literary and cultural studies in the French and Francophone field. Students are also given their first taste of Practical Translation Studies from French into both Afrikaans and English, as well as Creative Writing in French from the second year onwards.

German

Learning German will increase your ability to communicate internationally and interculturally. It will inevitably broaden your perspective on the world and at the same time provide you with a better understanding of your own society, language, and culture. Learning a new language is an exciting and enriching experience. It is also an investment for your future. The German Section at the University of the Free State offers course modules in German language, culture, and literature from beginner level to postgraduate level.

Hebrew

Biblical Hebrew is the language of the Old Testament and provides the background and religious concepts for the New Testament. Through an understanding of Hebrew within its cultural context in Ancient Israel and the Ancient Mediterranean world, it is possible to read and understand the message of the Bible – Old Testament, New Testament, and Apocrypha – in a new and insightful way. Modules are also offered in the related ancient languages of Biblical Aramaic, Syriac, Ugaritic as well as the Septuagint and Bible translation.

IsiZulu*

The isiZulu language course has two streams, namely isiZulu mother tongue, which equips students with knowledge of language structure and usage through disciplines such as phonology, morphology, syntax, semantics, and sociolinguistics within isiZulu context, and provides literature studies through disciplines such as poetry, novels, drama, and oral literature. In addition, this course introduces students to isiZulu linguistic content and the historical development of the isiZulu language and literature. The second stream is a conversational isiZulu course for professional students, equipping them with basic language skills at third additional-language level over a short period of time.

Sesotho*

The Sesotho language course has three streams, namely: Sesotho mother tongue, which equips students with knowledge on language structure and usage through disciplines such as phonology, morphology, syntax, semantics, and sociolinguistics within a Sesotho context, and provides literature studies through disciplines such as poetry, novels, drama, and oral literature. This course introduces students to Sesotho linguistic content and the historical development of the Sesotho language and literature. The second stream is a non-Sesotho mother-tongue course, which equips students with basic communication in Sesotho as conveyed through everyday practical conversational situations. This course introduces students to basic language skills as well as cultural contexts over three years. The third stream is a conversational Sesotho course for professional students, equipping them with basic language skills at the third additional-language level over a short period of time.

South African Sign Language

South African Sign Language (SASL) is a minority language used by more than 600 000 people in South Africa and is an official language in education. Competency in SASL would enable you to communicate with a deaf person and the deaf community at large without an interpreter. It would secure work in any field where interaction with the deaf community is required. Read more at https://www.ufs.ac.za/sasl.

Focus areas in SASL:

- SASL Linguistics: The study of the grammatical aspects and structure of signed languages as languages in their own right, their notation, and of SASL in particular.
- SASL Acquisition: Acquiring SASL as a foreign language and developing fluency in the language through interaction with deaf people and signing with peers.
- Deaf Studies: The study of the deaf community, its cultural conventions, its organisations, the development of signed languages and SASL in particular, and research on the world of the deaf.

Anthropology

Anthropology, a uniquely humanising discipline, explores the rich diversity of humanity across time and geographic space. Interested in particular rather than generalised expressions of our humanity, we usually conduct longitudinal, ethnographic research in societies other than our own to understand and deconstruct complex systems and patterns of behaviour. During the course of teaching, we encourage our students to attend to the complexity of seemingly simple social encounters and to the diversity and psychic unity of humanity. Contextualisation, historical and otherwise, is therefore important in anthropological teaching, research, and writing.

Focus areas in Anthropology:

- Identity construction race, ethnicity, and nationality
- Religious practices and philosophies of life
- · Globalisation, politics, and economics
- Symbolic structures and forms of expression
- · Processes of socio-cultural change
- Anthropology of education
- Migration transnationalism and diaspora

Art History and Image Studies

In this day and age, we are constantly surrounded by images in social media, art, movies, advertisements, maps, cartoons, diagrams, etc. But have you ever thought about the power images have? How they can fascinate us or move us to tears? How they can even inspire people to destroy and attack them? Art History and Image Studies is a discipline which asks questions like these to help us understand why human beings make images and what they tell us about ourselves.

We aim to vitalise art history by practising the discipline within a contemporary African and South African framework. Students are exposed to the history of the visual arts and broader visual culture (including popular culture such as films), as well as to the history of ideas in order to analyse their dynamic impact on contemporary life. The fact that we are situated in the diversity of South Africa and the African continent, intensifies the mutual tensions between theories, image objects, and imaginary worlds. Our study of images emphasises the iconic energy of translations, transformations, and transactions between cultures, theories, and aesthetic image objects.

Focus areas in Art History and Image Studies:

- Image interpretation in Art History from prehistoric art to early modern art
- · Studying visual culture and new media in the twentieth and twenty-first centuries
- · Visual narratives and fictive worlds: How images can 'tell stories' in different ways
- Image translations in South Africa: Contemporary South African artists' critical engagement with Western art traditions
- Envisioning knowledge: The roles images and imagination play in generating knowledge in various contexts, including the worlds of art, science, entertainment, technology, and politics
- Forms of image interaction: Key texts in art historical interpretation (the ways in which spectators understand, use, and interpret images)
- Approaches to the moving image: Exploring the theoretical concepts and cultural implications surrounding moving images (e.g., films and television series)

Communication Science*

How good are you at saying exactly what you mean? The ability to communicate effectively and responsibly is what will set you apart in the 21st century. Whether you are on social media, in a one-on-one conversation, in front of a large audience or even communicating to a mass audience through various platforms, the basic ability to deliver a powerful message in an efficient way is crucial.

Focus areas in Communication Science:

- Interpersonal communication
- Applied interpersonal communication
- Visual communication
- · Persuasive communication

- · Communication theory
- · Communication ethics
- Communication research
- Development and health communication

Geography*

Geography is the science of place, space, and time. Geographers ask where things are located on the surface of the Earth, why they are located there, how places differ from one another, and how people interact with their environment. There are two main branches of geography: Human Geography and Physical Geography. Human Geography is concerned with the special aspects of human existence – how people and their activities are distributed in space, how they use and understand space, and how they create and sustain the places that make up the Earth's surface. Physical Geography studies patterns of climate, landforms, vegetation, soils, and water, and how people interact with, and are influenced by them.

Focus areas in Geography:

- · Environmental management
- Environmental impact assessment
- · Town and regional planning
- Land-use change, strategic spatial planning, and housing planning in provincial and national government departments
- Integrated development planning and local economic development

History*

In our courses, we examine South Africa's contemporary past; the history of our continent; and the important historical processes of the world that we live in. The department has an impressive research track record specialising in the political and social history of South Africa and Southern Africa; oral history; women and their stories in the context of conflict and violence; the history of sport; and other aspects of South Africa's cultural history and heritage.

Focus areas in History:

- Introduction to the twentieth-century history of South Africa and Africa
- Twentieth-century world history
- The rise of nationalism in South Africa and Africa and the resistance to it
- · Twentieth-century global clashes
- En route to the new South Africa and the African Renaissance, c. 1976-2000: a historical perspective
- · How to make history

Language Practice

Society and culture cannot function without language. Practices based on language, such as translation, interpreting, editing, and terminology design occur every day in the economy, politics, media, medicine, law, and other fields. In the multilingual countries of Africa, journalists, doctors, politicians, civil servants, software designers and others have to perform their work with people who speak different languages. In Language Practice, we guide students to study these practices, the policy context in which they occur, and their influences on society and culture.

Linguistics

Linguistics is the scientific study of language. Linguists study things such as language structure (syntax and morphology), speech sounds (phonology and phonetics), meaning (semantics and pragmatics), sociolinguistics (for example, language contact, language in education, language rights), applied linguistics (for example, first- or second-language acquisition), historical linguistics, or typology, and many other areas of language use and the properties of languages. Linguists also document and describe languages or help speech communities to do so.

Philosophy

Philosophy is not just a subject, but a way of life. Philosophy begins with Socrates' famous statement in the fifth century BC: "All that I know is that I don't know." In our department, we strive to cultivate a questioning, critical life practice in our students – a practice that is as necessary in everyday life as in the work environment. Our students get a thorough grounding in more than 25 centuries' thought tradition, situated in the context of contemporary South Africa. It enables our students to be critical, participating citizens who contribute to a culture of dialogue and democracy.

Focus areas in Philosophy:

- Classical Greek and Roman Philosophy
- The church fathers and the Middle Ages: historical and conceptual overview
- Early modern and modern thought: from Ockham to the French Revolution
- · Kant and Hegel: between German idealism and romanticism
- Themes in contemporary continental Philosophy: critical theory, phenomenology, and deconstruction
- · Philosophy in Africa, multiculturalism, and the politics of identity

Political Science*

Political Science encompasses the study of the rules, institutions, processes, and ideas that govern and impact our daily lives. It further concerns the study of actors such as political parties, human rights groups, terrorist organisations, labour unions, religious bodies and other significant role players in politics and international relations. Pressing issues in politics and international relations such as ideology, power, poverty, development, globalisation, and inequality are also studied.

Focus areas in Political Science:

Political Dynamics

Political theory and ideology; government systems, processes, and regimes; governance; electoral politics; local government and service delivery; co-operative government; political development and transformation; democratisation; political economy; gender politics; strategic political planning; and political risk analysis.

International Relations

International Relations theory; globalisation and world politics; foreign policy and diplomacy; international organisations; international law; international political economy; African politics; and international

Psychology*

Psychology is the scientific study of human behaviour. It focuses on the ways in which individuals' thoughts, emotions, and behaviour develop and change over a lifetime. Although the study of individual functioning is central to this field, the systems relevant to both normal and abnormal behaviour is also included.

Focus areas in Psychology:

- Developmental Psychology
- Social Psychology
- Health Psychology
- Psychopathology
- Research Methodology
- Personology
- Psychotherapy and Ethics

Progression to honours and then a master's degree will lead to professional registration as a psychologist.

Sociology*

Sociology is the scientific study of society and social interaction. It focuses on the reciprocal relationship between society and the individual – how social institutions (for example, family, education, religion, politics, and culture) shape people's behaviour, beliefs, and identity, as well as how individuals, in turn, construct and change their societies. Knowledge of sociology can help us: recover (understand/analyse) our immediate past, anticipate the future of society; appreciate the diversity of human existence in society, deal with current societal problems and in so doing, help us strive for the creation of a better society for all.

Focus areas in Sociology:

- General sociology
- Sociology of consumerism and consumption
- The sociology of population and the environment
- Industrial sociology

- Sociological theory
- Sociology of the family
- Research methodology

BACHELOR OF ARTS IN LANGUAGE PRACTICE

Enquiries: Ms Pulane Moliko: +27 51 401 7156 | MolikoP@ufs.ac.za

Programme Description		1	Minimum Admission Requirements
Programme	Programme APC AP				Minimum duration	Campus
BA in Language Practice	30	5 (60%)	AL, QL	3 years	BC

Society and culture cannot function without language. Practices based on language, such as translation, interpreting, editing, and terminology design occur every day in the economy, politics, media, medicine, law, and other fields. In the multilingual countries of Africa, journalists, doctors, politicians, civil servants, software designers and others have to perform their work with people who speak different languages. In Language Practice, we guide students to study these practices, the policy context in which they occur, and their influences on society and culture.

We focus on the following:

- · Translation/interpreting and development
- Terminology development and public service delivery
- Editing
- · Language management in development contexts

A language practitioner can specialise in one or more of the following fields:

- Translator
- Language technologist
- Interpreter
- Language engineer
- Dictionary maker
- Language programmer
- · Language manager
- Copywriter and editor
- Terminologist
- Language facilitator

A language practitioner who wants to work in South Africa must be proficient in at least two of the official languages, one of which should be his/her home language and the other one English. Computer literacy is a prerequisite. Become a language practitioner and make languages work for you!

BA (Governance and Political Transformation)	BC130031	30	4 (50%)	AL, QL	3 years	BC

Are you interested in understanding the governance environment; comprehending the changes in the political world around you; evaluating the process of governance and political transformation; learning how to manage the governance environment in the process of rapid change; and participating in the development of a new value system linked to good governance and democracy? This programme offers a unique multidisciplinary combination of learning outcomes, providing you with the necessary theoretical and practical skills to make a meaningful contribution in both the public and the private sectors of South African life.

It aims to

- equip you with an understanding of the political, social, and economic realities of South Africa, as well as the necessary skills to contribute to the process of governance in a changing society;
- prepare you for careers in the civil service (government, administration, the diplomatic corps, the army, and the police), the media, politics, NGOs, trade unions, international organisations, and business;
- promote governance expertise and elementary management skills in a rapidly changing environment;
- develop you as a transformative leader; and
- promote a healthy value system required for good governance.

BACHELOR OF ARTS IN DRAMA AND THEATRE ARTS

Note: Admission to the BA in Drama and Theatre Arts is subject to selection. The closing date for studying the BA in Drama and Theatre Arts is 30 September 2022.

The BA (Drama and Theatre Arts) degree is market-related and outcomes-based. Graduated students are equipped for careers as senior professional actors; directors; designers; writers; technical theatre consultants for amateur or professional stage, television, film or community work; directors and actors in industrial theatre projects in the private sector; cultural workers within communities; radio presenters; voice artists; tutors of drama and theatre in private studios; schoolteachers (only if an extra school subject is taken to second-year level and the PGEC certificate is completed in the fourth year); college lecturers; and, with further qualifications, university lecturers.

Curriculum

The BA in Drama and Theatre Arts is a three-year degree where students study four modules: the history of the performing arts, theories of the performing arts, performance art, and technical aspects of the performing arts for the first two years of study. In the third year of study, the student continues with history and theory and can then choose a specialisation module: advanced acting, theatre making, technical or film practice.

Students must choose one subject from the list of BA module subjects to make up the balance of the credits for the degree.

DESCRIPTION OF DIFFERENT MAJOR SUBJECTS IN THE BSocSci PROGRAMME

Please note that only major subjects indicated with a '' are offered on the Qwaqwa Campus

Anthropology

Anthropology, a uniquely humanising discipline, explores the rich diversity of humanity across time and geographic space. Interested in particular rather than generalised expressions of our humanity, we usually conduct longitudinal, ethnographic research in societies other than our own to understand and deconstruct complex systems and patterns of behaviour. During the course of teaching, we encourage our students to attend to the complexity of seemingly simple social encounters and to the diversity and psychic unity of humanity. Contextualisation, historical and otherwise, is therefore important in anthropological teaching, research, and writing.

Focus areas in Anthropology:

- Identity construction race, ethnicity, and nationality
- · Religious practices and philosophies of life
- Globalisation, politics, and economics
- Symbolic structures and forms of expression
- · Processes of socio-cultural change
- Anthropology of education
- Migration transnationalism and diaspora

Criminology

Criminology includes the study of the causes, attributes, and patterns of conflict and its effects on individuals, communities, society, and the ecology together with the characteristics of law and the workings of the criminal justice system (including the administration of international justice) in order to engage critically and comparatively with juridical and non-juridical orientations towards conflict, criminal behaviour, victimisation, and abuse of power to ensure and advance a just society with a human rights ethos and emancipatory agenda.

Focus areas in Criminology:

- Criminal justice
- Penology
- Victimology
- Research methodology for criminology and criminal justice
- Criminal behaviour biopsychosocial perspectives
- Understanding child justice
- Forensic criminology
- Transitional justice

Industrial Psychology*

Industrial Psychology is the scientific study of the relationship between man and the world of work to improve the productivity and quality of life for people at work, applying techniques and principles of psychology.

Focus areas in Industrial Psychology:

- Recruitment, development, and training of human resources in the organisation
- Designing learning and development interventions
- Influencing individual and team behaviour within an organisation
- Classifying the complexity of labour relationships between individuals, organisations, unions, and the state
- Conducting qualitative and quantitative research
- · Managing performance effectively
- Conducting effective career planning and development

Political Science*

Political Science encompasses the study of the rules, institutions, processes, and ideas that govern and impact our daily lives. It further concerns the study of actors such as political parties, human rights groups, terrorist organisations, labour unions, religious bodies, and other significant role players in politics and international relations. Pressing issues in politics and international relations such as ideology, power, poverty, development, globalisation, and inequality are also studied.

Focus areas in Political Science:

- Political Dynamics: Political theory and ideology; government systems, processes, and regimes; governance; electoral politics; local government and service delivery; co-operative government; political development and transformation; democratisation; political economy; gender politics; strategic political planning; and political risk analysis.
- International Relations: International relations theory; globalisation and world politics; foreign policy and diplomacy; international organisations; international law; international political economy; African politics; and international conflict, security, and strategic studies.

Psychology*

Psychology is the scientific study of human behaviour. It focuses on the ways in which individuals' thoughts, emotions, and behaviour develop and change over a lifetime. Although the study of individual functioning is central to this field, the systems relevant to both normal and abnormal behaviour is also included.

Focus areas in Psychology:

- · Developmental Psychology
- Social Psychology
- Health Psychology
- Psychopathology
- Research Methodology
- Personology
- Psychotherapy and Ethics
