In a world where education changes lives, we at the Faculty of Education change the social fabric of our community, culture, and ultimately the world through the interaction between teaching and learning."

PROFESSOR LOYISO JITA,

Dean for the Faculty of Education at the University of the Free State.

The Faculty of Education has a primary role of preparing pre-service teachers for their work in schools. A second major role of ours, is to ensure that we have a strong discipline base for our professional work and teaching of in-service educators. To be an educator can be challenging, but it is also exciting and adventurous. The reward lies within the knowledge that you have the opportunity and ability to positively impact a young person's life.

Situated at the Winkie Direko building, just behind the Sasol Library, our offerings range from non-selection undergraduate certificates, diplomas and degrees, as well as postgraduate certificates, Honours, Masters and Doctoral study programmes.

Admission into the four year Bachelor of Education (BEd) programme requires the following an Admission Point of 30 and an achievement level of 4 (50%) in the language of instruction achieved at level 4 (50%).
