Databases and Jour

The following databases from the A-Z Databaselist are important for Education:

(Remember to explore all the others available for your convenience and use!)

EBSCOHost (including Academic Search Ultimate, E-book Central, Education Source, ERIC)

Use EBSCOhost to search any combination of EBSCO databases.

SAePublications (African Journals)

The most comprehensive searchable collection of full text electronic South African journals in the world, focuses on making journals published in South Africa, available online.

SAGE Research Methods!!

SAGE Research Methods is a web-based research methods tool that covers quantitative, qualitative and mixed methods. Researchers can explore methods and concepts to help design research projects, understand a particular method or identify a new method, and write up research. Sage Research Methods focuses on methodology rather than disciplines, and is of potential use to researchers from the social sciences, health sciences and other research areas.

ScienceDirect

This multidisciplinary resource indexes thousands of Elsevier journals and books. Full text is available for some of these publications. It is especially strong in topics related to the sciences, medicine, and technology.

Web of Science

Web of Science indexes core journal articles, conference proceedings, data sets, and other resources in the sciences, social sciences, arts, and humanities.

The Libguide for the Faculty of Education offers the following:

Library Training

(How to conduct a search on the databases to look for academic articles included)

Referencing Methods
