

Title: Half empty, half full

As the pandemic was around the world
South Africans thought it would never happen to us
Within a blink of an eye
The whole country went into lockdown

Anxious, restless, worried, fearful
These are a few emotions that everyone is feeling
When will this end?
What will we be doing?

So much negativity has revolved around the coronavirus
It is difficult to see the positive
But just for a minute
Shift your mind-set

Petrol prices have gone done
Family are together at home
Fewer cars are on the road
People are reassessing their priorities

Mother Nature is restoring herself
It is okay not to be okay
But remember
The rainbow always comes after the storm
